

Yasuharu Ohgoe, he received B. Eng., M. Eng., and D. Eng. degrees from Tokyo Denki University, Saitama, in 2000, 2002, and 2005 respectively.

He is a research associate at Tokyo Denki University, Saitama. He is currently involved in developing plasma processing technology to material science. His research interests include application of carbon materials.